Information for students -

The induction programme will provide you with -

- a realistic expectation of the subject and the range of topics covered
- an appreciation of the fact that there will be lots of new content
- an appreciation of the fact it will include numerical skills
- some understanding of the skills that they will need to develop over the 2 years of study
- an ability to contribute in class with real world examples
- an inquisitive mind

To deliver this programme we are continuing our partnership work with Business educational advisors Time2Resources. Who have produced a series of 4 worksheets all based around the Channel 5 documentary “Inside Aldi”. This will provide you with an excellent overview of a business in the ‘real’ world that is directly linked to the assessment requirements for A Level Business Studies.

On completion of the “Inside Aldi” case study Mr Miller, will continue to develop your ability to write essay responses to A Level standard. A wide variety of contexts will be used for this delivery and allow excellent preparation for you to start A Level Business Studies. Lesson delivery will also include business numeracy concepts, to further develop your ability to succeed in A Level Business Studies.

To deliver this programme we are continuing our partnership work with Business educational advisors Time2Resources. Who have produced a series of 4 worksheets all based around the Channel 5 documentary “Inside Aldi”. This will provide you with an excellent overview of a business in the ‘real’ world that will support your ability to research an organisation to a level that will allow you to achieve the highest grades in level 3 BTEC coursework.

On completion of the “Inside Aldi” case study your teacher will work with you on the topic of innovative businesses. This topic is directly linked to the Business BTEC Level 3 specification and will provide you with an excellent platform to commence your studies in sixth form. During this topic you will research a range of organisations to explore how innovation makes them successful. To develop understanding further you will consider the benefits and the risks associated with innovation for each organisation.
